DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1, 4-7,10-15,19 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The "blade edges depending substantially vertically from said lower surface of said core" is new matter. This subject matter also appears to contradict the recitation in Specification amendment filed 4/11/05 which recites that the blade edges are parallel. Therefore, the Action which follows is based on the claims excluding this subject matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1, 4-7, 13-15, 19, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Hakim (USPN 6,647,828). Hakim discloses the claimed invention comprising a core ("HARD" portion indicated in Figure 6(A)) having upper and lower surfaces and defining a longitudinally curved (as seen in Figures 1-3) scraper blade 18, having a scraper surface (edges of portion 18). The scraper surfaces of the blade are considered to be capable of scraping sweat from the body of an animal. The blade 18 is considered to have a tip at one free end and a handle 38 at an opposite end. A neck portion of the blade 18 extends, in a longitudinally curved manner, between blade center 24 and handle 38. A sheath (16 and "SOFT" portion in Figure 6(A)) extends along a length of the blade 18 defining a pair of V-shaped scraper blade edges (see Figure 6(A)). The sheath 16 is considered to envelope at least a portion of the neck portion. The core is made of a first resilient material, i.e. polypropylene, and the sheath is made of a second resilient material, i.e. silicone or other elastomers (Hakim, col.2, 11.41-50). Regarding claim 13, the blade 18 is considered to be trough-like. Regarding claims 14 and 15, as seen in Figure 6(A) the sheath and core couple together in a tongue-and-groove-type interlock. Regarding claim 19, the blade edges on opposing sides are substantially perpendicular. Regarding claim 20, there is a substantially constant width for a majority of the length of blade 18.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hakim. Hakim discloses the claimed device except the specific elastomer or rubber is not positively disclosed, Hakim only noted that other suitable elastomers may be used. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use thermoplastic vulcanite, or ethylene propylene diene monomer rubber and a polypropylene, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.
